

“The school will be co-educational and non-selective, with the same nurturing ethos on which we pride ourselves at Fulham Prep School. Ultimately, we aim to equip our young men and women to be committed, considerate and courteous; ready to fulfil their potential both personally and academically.”

FULHAM SENIOR SCHOOL

Fulham Senior School will be a co-educational, non-denominational, independent school designed for students to achieve their maximum potential in a nurturing, contemporary and progressive academic environment from age 13 to 18. It will build on the strong reputation and approach of Fulham Pre-Prep and Prep School.

Each student will be nurtured fully in order to develop their individuality, talents and self-assurance. This will equip pupils with the skills and confidence that will ensure their future success in the adult world.

Following the acquisition of Fulham Prep School, three years ago, Inspired (<http://inspirededu.co.uk>) has since introduced plans to launch a senior school on another campus; an exciting new development. Fulham Prep School is one of the largest and most prestigious Pre-Prep and Prep Schools in West London and the opening of a senior school will enable pupils to continue their education right through to school-leaving age and to benefit from the added opportunities belonging to Inspired's global family of schools can provide. Phase One of the new campus will open in September 2018 with completion planned for September 2019. A number of children's parents at the Prep School have already committed to educating their children at the senior school. In addition, an active marketing programme is attracting interest from external candidates. Year 9, this year, is currently being taught at the Prep School pending the move to the new buildings.

Further Details

Inspired is now looking to appoint an outstanding team of teachers to assist with the setting up of the new Senior School. The successful candidates will have a pioneering spirit, be flexible and adaptable, always striving to improve the provision for the pupils in their care.

The initial team will be small. The appointed teachers will be ambitious and able to work closely with one another in a fast moving environment. Each teacher will need to be a subject specialist, preferably qualified and able to teach up to A Level. Ideally, each will also offer another subject, related to their main area of expertise. An exciting extra-curricular programme will develop in line with the passions and interests of the teaching team.

These posts could suit NQTs as well as being an opportunity for experienced teachers looking for a more challenging position.
